Dear Chairman O'Rielly:

Repealing net neutrality will not only stymie entrepreneurial innovation but it will increase costs of access. Innovation in the 21st century has been spurred by a free and open internet. It has given companies, like Facebook, Twitter, and Amazon, a leg up to become the giants they are. Small businesses and entrepreneurs have also thrived because of affordable access.

I urge all members of the FCC to reject Restore Internet Freedom and instead support Net Neutrality.

Sincerely,

Kimber Breeden
